PRESERVING THE HAIR.

How to Treat a Scalp When the Weather is Cold.

If women would remember that cold weather dries the hair and makes it unmanageable they might be able to treat the scalp so the tresses would be healthy and could be coiled into pretty bouffants. Water sometimes does more harm than good by increasing the stiffness of the hair as the liquid dries out. As a matter of fact, when each hair seems possessed to stand on end only brushing and the application of some mixture that contains oil is effective.

Oils, besides neutralizing the condition of dryness and making the hair easier to handle, have the added virtue of tonic properties and if massaged into the scalp the benefit after some weeks is pronounced.

A tonic of this kind that has been used for several generations by one family is made from sixteen ounces of pure cologne and two ounces of castor oil. Far from being greasy or unpleasant, this mixture is easily put on and has an agreeable odor. Containing less oil, but stronger in tonic properties, is a combination of four ounces of cologne, half an ounce of tincture of cantharides, a quarter of a dram each of oils of lavender and rosemary. The best way of applying either of these is to make many parts close together on the scalp and rub the liquid into each, using either the finger tips or a small brush.

If the hair is extremely dry the application may be used every day, but in many cases every other day is sufficient. Too much of the tonic will make the hair heavy with grease and altogether unmanageable.

When the hair is falling and is dry and hard in texture a stimulating mixture to use may be made from one and one-half ounces of coconut oil, two and one-half ounces of tincture of nuxvomica, one ounce of bay rum and twenty drops of oil of bergamot. This tonic should be thoroughly rubbed with the finger tips into divisions made along the scalp. To apply it every other night is sufficient, and on alternate nights there may be used another formula composed of one dram of alcohol tincture of cantharides, half a dram of tincture of opium, two drams of tincture of nuxvomica, three quarters of an ounce of cocoa oil and two and one-half ounces of cologne. Nothing will so quickly cause the hair to turn gray as an absence of nourishing oils, and it is for this reason that tonics containing such ingredients are invaluable. When there is a decided tendency to whiteness a formula that has been found useful, if massaged nightly into the head, is one dram each of terebene, borax and sulphur and six ounces of lavender water.

STORAGE OF APPLES.

How to Keep Them in Good Condition in an Apple Cellar.

An apple cellar should be the tidest and sweetest corner of the house. Nothing else should ever be stored in it. Its walls should be at least twenty inches thick, and it should have abundant light. All summer it should be open to drafts of air and kept free of any decay.

There should be no moldy boards or any smell of mildew. In other words, the air should be fit to breathe. When the apples are stored the drafts should be stopped, and when steady cold sets in you should shut the cellar tight and let it stay tightly closed until May.

You can place such a cellar as this conveniently under part of your barn or under your carriage house, only there should be no stable adjacent. The floor overhead should be covered with autumn leaves spread thickly to prevent any change of atmosphere below. The thermometer all winter should stand at about 33, just above freezing. Put your apples in shallow bins, cement the floor to keep out rats, and if barrels are used set them up somewhat from the floor.—Outing Magazine.

How to Manage a Life Preserver.

"The worst trouble about a life preserver," said an old sailor, "is that few people know what to do with one when it's thrown to them. Many a man would drown in trying to get a life preserver over his head. The average person struggling about in the water would try to lift up the big life ring and put it over his head. That only causes the man to sink deeper and take more water into his lungs. The proper way to approach a life preserver in the water is to take hold of the side nearest you and press upon it with all your weight. That causes the farther side to fly up in the air and down over your head, 'ringing' you as neatly as a man ringing a cane at a country fair. After that mister drowning man can be rescued."

How to Save in Cutting Goods.

When you wish to know the exact amount of material required for a garment procure sample and width of material from the clerk, then use newspapers the exact width of material; if single width, place pattern on paper, being sure to remember which is up and down of the goods. Use enough newspaper for whole garment and then measure exact amount required is to be used.

How to Wash a Red Broadcloth Coat. For washing a red broadcloth coat get 10 cents' worth of soap tree bark. Steep in two quarts of water on back of stove for about an hour. Strain into tub, put enough warm water in to wash the coat, let stand for a little while to soak the dirt out, then wash and rinse well. Hang out wet on coat hanger so it won't shrink and button up to keep in shape.

If you are to have the Three-Times-a-Week World and Advertiser send $2.20. It pays for a year for both.

Forty-five Years in a Cave.

The census enumerator for Russell township, Macon County, Mo., struck a home the other day, where he could get nearly all the information required by a look at the premises. He found an old man sitting in a tiny, dark, cramped cave, his hands crossed, enjoying the warm sun that haloed his gray hair. The hermit was John G. Godman Jones, native of Wales, aged 75; parents long dead, no wife nor kin of any sort this side of the water; 45 years in the cave, owner of five acres; worth about $20,000, mostly in notes; no horses, no cattle, no dogs, no chickens; no barn; no houses. That's about the report the enumerator will file with the census supervisor of this queer citizen of the United States, who has lived in a cave in the Charlton Valley for nearly half a century. Though odd in his way of living, the aged hermit is a most gracious host. He loves to have people visit his tiny cave and make remarks about the order of the way in which it is kept.

The cave was originally constructed when Mr. Jones came into these parts from Wales in 1865 and took up 160 acres of rich bottom land in the valley. He dug out a place on a sort of promontory, where the water would drain off, timbered the sides with wooden props like the entry of a coal mine, and covered the long and narrow tunnel with a thatched roof. It seemed good enough habitation for a young man to live in for a few months, but he had made up his mind for something better. Mr. Jones would have been mightily offended if any one had suggested then that the little dug-out would be his permanent home. In those days there were many such dwellings up and down the valley. Like his brawny neighbors, the young Welshman felled trees, cultivated a garden, carried his produce down to the towns on the railroad. But, by and by, the lowland farmers began to marry, build homes and add to their comfort in many ways. About the time he had made a good start, and had a few dollars laid by, Jones journeyed back to the fatherland. It is said that this trip was the crisis of his life: that there was a dark-eyed daughter of Wales for whom he was building fairy castles in his dreams, and intended to build a real one if she would cross the water with him. Just what occurred there, no one in this country knows. When asked why he never married, the old hermit shakes his head and smiles wistfully.

"What would I do with a woman here? There's just room enough for one." Anyhow, Mr. Jones returned alone, and he has never been back to Wales since, though easily able to make the trip over a dozen times if he likes. The hermit has never changed or enlarged his primitive dwelling. He lived with the utmost frugality, and until recently most people supposed he was poor. One day, some years ago, the hermit learned that Dave—a friend of his, living over on the railroad, was in hard financial lines because of protracted illness in his family. He walked to town, a good six miles, and sought Dave.

"I've got a little money laid by, Dave," said Jones; "maybe I could help some."

"Much obliged, John," replied Dave, "but I'm afraid you couldn't do me any good. I need lots."

"How much?"

"You see I had to mortgage my place," returned Dave, "and they're talking of making me trouble."

"How much is it, Dave?" persisted the hermit.

"Well, John, if I don't raise a thousand dollars by the first of the month, I don't know what will happen to me."

The hermit pulled out a rusty old bill book, laid it on the table, and said: "Take what you want, Dave."

At that time the cave-man was wearing a suit that looked as if all the winds of adversity had taken a shot at it, and then walked up and down on it. Certainly he would never have been held up by an astute highwayman; and yet that old bill book contained enough to pay off Dave's troublesome mortgage, and there was plenty more left in it. From a small savings he had loaned money to farmers in his neighborhood, charging a legal rate of interest, until he had accumulated a large fund. The hermit sits out at dusk, English fluently, but he can figure interest all right, and knows exactly when a note is due, and the precise interest. He uses no memorandum of any kind, but carries all these transactions in his head. He is not hard on borrowers, but he is as prompt as a bank in calling on the day interest is due, and the note to be renewed.

Inside the queer domicile, between the timbers, are wooden shelves, and on these shelves the hermit keeps an assortment that would rival an old curiosity shop. Every shoe or garment he finds is placed there, because it allows nothing to go to waste. The collection, the result of 45 years' accumulation, comprises, in part, knives, parts of guns, railroad spikes, lanterns, lanterns, shears, dippers, tin funnels, almanacs, magazines, buckles, pieces of harness, looking-glasses, coils of wire, fans, fragments of clocks and locks, old bottles and jars, window shades, stove lifters and other articles innumerable.

Across the cave, up close to the roof and reached by a short ladder, is the hermit's bunk. As he says, there is just room enough for one. Generous as he is he could never take a friend in unless on a pretty tight squeeze. Some years ago Mr. Jones' sister, in Wales, wrote that she and the children were thinking of coming to America to give him the pleasure of their society on his estate for a few months. The same night a letter went out from Mr. Jones, stating that there was a very serious epidemic of small-pox raging in the United States just then, and advising a postponement of the trip until he wrote for them to come.

Mr. Jones' original possessions in the valley consisted of 160 acres, but when land began climbing up in price he sold all but five acres surrounding his cave. He keeps his premises as clean as a lawn on the boulevard, but allows no living thing about it, save squirrels, birds and rabbits, and those creatures he loves because of a certain kinship he has with all things that run wild and care-free.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking—none in outside heating.

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wick with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room.

It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot. It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

BETHEL.

Dr. Wright lost a valuable yearling colt last week. It was found dead in the pasture.

Wednesday evening this week the Eastern Stars of Bethel visited the chapter at West Paris, going in autos.

Next Sunday will be observed as Children's Sunday at the Universalist church. Children of the Sunday school will assist in the singing.

The Yale Stock Company played two nights last week in Odeon Hall, having a large audience both nights. It was a good entertainment, clean and interesting from start to finish.

The commencement concert of Gould Academy will be given in Odeon Hall this Thursday evening. The graduation exercises in the same place this afternoon. The reception will be Friday evening.

Marie Neytun, Doris Culbert, Harold Merrill and Ralph Andrews of South Paris were at Rev. Mr. Little's, Saturday and Sunday. Herbert Fletcher and wife with Harold Fletcher and Clara Emerson came up from South Paris in their auto last Sunday and called on Rev. Mr. Little and family.

Rev. Mr. Little and wife of Paris were visitors in town last Sunday. Last Sunday was the first Sunday of the second year of Rev. Mr. Little's pastorate at Bethel. The sermon in the morning was from the text, "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God."

In the evening Mr. Little was the leader of the singing, and in the course of his remarks alluded to the fact that it was the anniversary of his settlement at Bethel.

The Baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class of Gould Academy was delivered last Sunday in the Congregational church by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Curtis. Rev. J. H. Little assisted in the service, reading the Scripture and offering the prayer. The music, which was special for the occasion and finely rendered, was by a union choir with singers from the three churches.

At the annual meeting of the Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist church, the following officers were elected:

Pres.—Mrs. Gipsy Barker.
V. Pres.—Mrs. J. S. Burbank.
Treas.—Mrs. Frost.
Recording Sec.—Mrs. French.
Corresponding Sec.—E. C. Park.

Committees:

Several attended church at Bethel Hill, Sunday afternoon.

Lulu and Frances Locke with their brother Herbert of Locke's Mills were with relatives here the 5th inst. A few years ago, Herbert was here as a school boy.

A call at the old cemetery here near the church found us among the graves of twelve or more veterans of the Civil War with flags floating to their memory. Just across the road from this cemetery is the home of one living veteran, A. M. Carter. This home, or Carter Mansion, was where our aged friend, John Willard, died at the advanced age of 101 years, who at that age composed the following acrostic on the writer's name:

Eternal goodness thee surround,
Peace and plenty ever around,
Kind friends and neighbors ever near
In weal or woe your heart to cheer.
May you be blest wherever you
Beloved by friends, without a foe.
And if on earth we never shall meet,
Thou hast my hope we may each other greet.
Like loving friends at Jesus' feet.

The cold weather, the "fungus disease" planted by the agricultural department where the brownwails were most plentiful, the picking of the nests are apparently overcoming this pest in our State.

Not only has the growth of some of the early crops been retarded by the cold wave of the past few days, but on Saturday night of killing frosts reached the low lands in many places and chilled the tender vines that are only a few inches out of ground.

Business Is Business.

"Do you want to see me again, doc?"
"I don't want to, but it's business."

Brass Ones.

"I stopped at a lovely place last summer; plenty of fellows. Honest, I got laid a dozen times."

"So, I didn't know there was a merry-go-round out there."

Can't Be Touched.

"Say, mister, can't you help a poor man who has lost both arms?"
"No; you can't touch me."

TAKE CARE OF THE ROADS.

Government and Many States Interested in Highway Improvements.

The United States has entered upon a great era of road improvement. Large appropriations from state funds have been made for such work. At least twenty states have made such appropriations. In some states individual counties are obtaining satisfactory results by large bond issues.

The demand for men specially qualified in highway engineering is increasing at a rapid rate, and for this reason the department of agriculture in Washington has co-operated with educational institutions and urged the establishment of courses in highway engineering or a modification of civil engineering courses, so as to provide the necessary instruction. Many colleges and universities are making definite progress along these lines. In connection with this movement the department has issued a circular.

Our new shoemaker, Mr. Mayberry of Harrison, is a ready for business. Mr. Mayberry is a good workman and invites the patronage of all who need any repairing in the harness or shoe line.

Craigie Lodge, K. of P., held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, and at close of meeting had a practice drill for the working of the rank of Esquire at South Paris on Friday night.

Craigie Temple, Pythian Sisters, No. 41, exemplified their work on one candidate Wednesday night, June 1. The work of the degree team was nearly perfect, the ritualistic work well rendered, and the long and exacting degree was worked in a most interesting and impressive manner.

The democratic caucus was held at the town house, Saturday, at 2 o'clock, and elected delegates. Delegates to the State convention at Augusta, June 15, S. H. Eaton, F. L. Wilson; alternates, Arthur Walker, A. D. Thayer; to the 2nd district to be held at Lewiston, June 14, H. O. Blake, C. F. Starbird; alternates, S. D. Jilison, S. M. Patterson; to the County convention at South Paris, July 2, F. P. Martin, C. S. Rowe; alternates, Herbert Flood, A. K. Thomas. The town committee was chosen, H. O. Blake chairman, S. H. Estes, S. B. Jilison.

NO INSECTS ON THIS ROAD.

ment has for several years appointed annually a small number of graduates in civil engineering and given to them thorough and practical training in highway work for one year. A number of these young engineers have passed from the department's service to important situations in state and county road work.

In many parts of the country almost devoid of road building rocks the cost of macadam roads is prohibitive. Experiments have demonstrated that the sand-clay method of road construction is a fairly good substitute for macadam road, and roads so built are giving satisfaction in various southern states.

Burnt clay is another material with which experiments have been made in road construction, and it is found to be desirable to use this material where macadam roads cannot be made at a cost of not more than one-third of the usual cost of the latter.

Dust prevention on public roads has received investigation in this country as well as in Europe. The materials used in the experiments of the government department have included, among others, tar preparations, asphalt, oils, such temporary expedients as calcium chloride and several special preparations originating in the department. The testing of road materials to determine their suitability for road building has reached a high state of efficiency in the department.

Some states are rapidly giving more permanent construction to the principal highways. The state of New York in a recent year expended for this purpose more than $1,000,000; Massachusetts, about $750,000; Connecticut, about $200,000; New Jersey, about $250,000; Pennsylvania and Vermont, about $130,000 each. Among the states that have pushed this work the more rapidly are Massachusetts and Rhode Island, where about one-half of the mileage of the public roads is improved; Indiana and Ohio, with more than one-fifth improved; California, with about one-fifth; Connecticut, Kentucky, New Jersey and Wisconsin, with more than one-sixth, and Illinois, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, New Hampshire, New York, Tennessee and Utah, with about one-tenth.

A very good idea of the well kept road and the one that is neglected can be obtained by a study of the illustrations here given.

A Good Garden.

A good home garden is a great institution. It means more to many farmers than the crop of wheat, corn or oats. It furnishes food for the family throughout the summer and, if properly handled, a liberal supply for winter. Some gardens are handled so skillfully that there is a surplus of vegetables for sale almost every week. It means much to the farmer and his family and should be planned with the utmost care and given the very best attention.

If you are to have the Three-Times-a-Week World and Advertiser send $2.20. It pays for a year for both.

OXFORD.

Oxford Spring House Opens June 15.

Oxford Spring House will open June 15, under the same management as last season. It has been thoroughly renovated and many new furnishings added. Arthur Bumpus will have charge of the stable and Rudolph Walker will be the man of all work.

Walter Holden and Fred Jordan are building new motor boats.

William J. Wheeler of South Paris was in town Saturday last.

Mrs. Bacon of Norway has been spending the week with her niece, Mrs. Geo. Morris.

Parley French is taking a much needed vacation from his work at Lord & Starbird's store.

Earle Kavanaugh, who is attending business college in Lewiston, is home for a short stay.

Three of our crack fishermen visited Andover last Saturday, and brought home 300 brook trout.

Schools in town will close Friday, June 17, with the exception of Pigeon Hill which will close the 24th.

Alonso Chabourne of Massachusetts is visiting his sisters, Mrs. Augusta Jones and Mrs. Nettie Wardwell.

The examination of pupils for entrance to the high school will be held in the high school room of Oxford village on Saturday, June 25, at 9 a. m.

Our new shoemaker, Mr. Mayberry of Harrison, is a ready for business. Mr. Mayberry is a good workman and invites the patronage of all who need any repairing in the harness or shoe line.

Craigie Lodge, K. of P., held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, and at close of meeting had a practice drill for the working of the rank of Esquire at South Paris on Friday night.

For Coughs—Take This

Do you know a remedy for coughs and colds nearly seventy years old? There is one—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Once in the family, it stays. It is not a doctor, does not take the place of a doctor. It is a doctor's aid. Made for the treatment of all throat and lung troubles. Ask your own doctor his opinion of it. Follow his advice. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

You cannot recover promptly if your bowels are constipated. Ayer's Pills are gently laxative; act directly on the liver. Sold for nearly sixty years. Ask your doctor all about them.

BETHEL.

Dr. Wright lost a valuable yearling colt last week. It was found dead in the pasture.

Wednesday evening this week the Eastern Stars of Bethel visited the chapter at West Paris, going in autos.

Next Sunday will be observed as children's Sunday at the Universalist church. Children of the Sunday school will assist in the singing.

The Yale Stock Company played two nights last week in Odeon Hall, having a large audience both nights. It was a good entertainment, clean and interesting from start to finish.

The commencement concert of Gould Academy will be given in Odeon Hall this Thursday evening. The graduation exercises in the same place this afternoon. The reception will be Friday evening.

Marie Newton, Doris Culbert, Harold Merrill and Ralph Andrews of South Paris were at Rev. Mr. Little's, Saturday and Sunday. Herbert Fletcher and wife with Harold Fletcher and Clara Emerson came up from South Paris in their auto last Sunday and called on Rev. Mr. Little and family; also Mr. Martin and wife of Paris were visitors in town last Sunday.

Last Sunday was the first Sunday of the second year of Rev. Mr. Little's pastorate at Bethel. The sermon in the morning was from the text, "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." In the evening Mr. Little was the leader of the Y. P. C. U. meeting and in the course of his remarks alluded to the fact that it was the anniversary of his settlement at Bethel.

The Baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class of Gould Academy was delivered last Sunday in the Congregational church by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Curtis. Rev. J. B. Little assisted in the service, reading the Scripture and offering the prayer. The music, which was special for the occasion and finely rendered, was by a union choir with singers from the three churches.

At the annual meeting of the Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist church, the following officers were elected:

Pres.—Mrs. Gipsy Barker.
V. Pres.—Mrs. J. S. Burbank.

Other committees same as last year.

Middle Intervale.

Several attended church at Bethel Hill, Sunday afternoon.

Lulu and Frances Downs with their brother Herbert of Locke's Mills were with relatives here the 6th inst. A few years ago, Herbert was here as a school boy.

A call at the old cemetery here near the church found us among the graves of twelve or more veterans of the Civil War with flags floating to their memory. Just across the road from this cemetery is the home of one living veteran, A. M. Carter. This home, or Carter Mansion, was where our aged friend, John Willard, died at the advanced age of 101 years, who at that age composed the following acrostic on the writer's name:

Eternal goodness thee surround,
For thou art plenty of our joy,
Kind friends and neighbors ever near
In woe or woe your heart to cheer.
May you be blessed with every grace,
Beloved by friends, without a foe.
And if on earth we ne'er shall meet,
Like loving friends at Jesus' feet.

"I stopped at a lovely place last summer, plenty of fellows. Honest, I got half a dozen rings."

A Good Garden.

A good home garden is a great institution. It means more to many farmers than the crop of wheat, corn or oats. It furnishes food for the family throughout the summer and, if properly handled, a liberal supply for winter. Some gardens are handled so skillfully that there is a surplus of vegetables for sale almost every week. It means much to the farmer and his family and should be planned with the utmost care and given the very best attention.

ment has for several years appointed annually a small number of graduates in civil engineering and given to them thorough and practical training in highway work for one year. A number of these young engineers have passed from the department's service to important positions in state and county road work.

In many parts of the country almost devoid of road building rocks the cost of macadam roads is prohibitive. Experiments have demonstrated that the sand-clay method of road construction is a fairly good substitute for macadam road, and roads so built are giving satisfaction in various southern states.

Burnt clay is another material with which experiments have been made in road construction, and it is found to be desirable to use this material where macadam roads cannot be made at a cost of not more than one-third of the usual cost of the latter.

Dust prevention on public roads has received investigation in this country as well as in Europe. The materials used in the experiments of the government department have included, among others, tar preparations, asphalt, oils, such temporary expedients as calcium chloride and several special preparations originating in the department.

The testing of road materials to determine their suitability for road building has reached a high state of efficiency in the department.

Some states are rapidly giving more permanent construction to the principal highways. The state of New York to a recent year expended for this purpose more than $1,000,000; Massachusetts, about $575,000; Connecticut, about $220,000; New Jersey, about $250,000; Pennsylvania and Vermont,

LOVELL.

Josiah Heald Stearns.

Josiah Heald Stearns, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Lovell, died at his home, Fairview, early Saturday morning.

Mr. Stearns had been in ill health for the past two years and his infirmities necessarily retired him from active and public life.

He was born in Lovell, Feb. 18th, 1833, and was the eldest son of General Solomon and Sally Heald Stearns. At the age of 16 his father died, leaving him with the cares and responsibilities of a farm, which he conducted for several years.

He was engaged in lumber business four years in Pennsylvania, but returned to Lovell at the breaking out of the Civil War, and enlisted in Company H, 23d Regiment of Maine Volunteers. He was commissioned 1st Lieutenant of his company, and served his country faithfully until his regiment was mustered out of service.

In 1870 he was appointed U. S. Deputy surveyor of Florida and spent about two years on the peninsula in the discharge of his duties. His experience, ability and knowledge of woodcraft made his services as a surveyor much in demand in establishing lines and boundaries in his native town and surrounding country. It has been correctly stated that his knowledge of the original division of lots in Lovell, as well as all subsequent divisions was superior to that of any one.

In 1883 he purchased Fairview, a large farm, and has since lived there.

He was a republican in politics, had been a selectman and road commissioner of the town, and was postmaster at Center Lovell for several years.

Mr. Stearns early evoked the cause of Christianity and became a member of the first Congregational church in Lovell, and at the time of his death was deacon in the church. He was a member of Delta Lodge, No. 153, F. & A. M., a member of Kezar Valley Lodge, I. O. O. F., and also a member and past Commander of Parker Post, No. 151, G. A. R.

He married Sarah Russell Stearns, who died in 1904. He is survived by six children: Clayton M. in Washington state, Henry C. of Concord, N. H., Mrs. Geo. W. Walker, Leslie L. and Adelbert A. of Lovell, and Sargent S. of Boston, Mass.

They are saving long lumber at the mill now.

The Woman's Library club will give a supper and social dance at Pine Grove Hall, Wednesday evening, June 15.

Kezar Valley Lodge, I. O. O. F., will visit Fryburg lodge on Thursday night, June 9th. The second degree will be conferred.

WATERFORD.

Nettie Shedd.

It is with much regret we learn of the death of Nettie Shedd, at the M. C. G. hospital, May 9.

She had always lived in Waterford and was born, Mar. 1, 1863, the daughter of John F. and Abbie (Kimball) Shedd. She was educated in the public schools of Waterford.

She was a member of the Congregational church, and held in the highest esteem. At the death of her mother she assumed the cares of the household and was a devoted and unselfish daughter and sister. With her home as a center, her influence for good was felt far beyond the bounds of her immediate community. Of her it can truly be said "She hath done all she could."

She leaves a father, John F. Shedd, and one brother, Edgar K. Shedd, with whom she lived, and other relatives and friends.

GRAFTON.

Mary T. Otis.

Mrs. Mary T. Otis died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Franc Decker on Main street, Monday May 30, at the age of 70 years. Mrs. Otis was the daughter of Ruth and James Brown, one of the early pioneer settlers of this town and lived all her life on the old homestead known as the Brown farm. In early life she married George Otis of Stetson. Four children were born to them, of whom all are living: Franc Decker of Lewiston, Roe Otis of Oquossoc, Jennie Philbrook of Greene and Will Otis of this town.

Since the death of her husband, some two years ago, Mrs. Otis had made her home with the children, coming back to the home farm for the summer. She had been in her usual health until some eight days previous to her death, when she had a bilious turn which resulted fatally.

She was brought to Grafton, Wednesday, and the funeral was held Thursday at 10 o'clock, Rev. L. S. Macduff of West Paris officiating and the interment was at Grafton beside her husband. The many flowers showed the high esteem in which she was held by her relatives and many friends. She will be much missed by her old friends and neighbors here but more so by her daughter, Mrs. Decker, who was widowed some three years ago, and with whom she has lived for the past year and been kindly cared for.

Besides her children she leaves one brother, Thaddeus, of East Sumner, and three grandchildren, Wendell, Philbrook of Greene and Marguerite and Helen Decker of Lewiston.

Claude Brown is stopping at A. F. Brooks'.

Will Bartlett has been working for Etta Lane.

Roe Otis and wife of Oquossoc left town Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thail Brown of East Sumner were in town on Thursday.

Eliz Stearns of Bethel was in town Saturday, buying wool and lambs.

Mrs. Fred Lane and family visited Betsy Bartlett on Back street, Sunday. A crew of men and horses are working on the town road below Grafton Notch.

Mrs. Will Otis is quite sick, and a trained nurse from Lewiston is caring for her.

What kind of weather are we having? Cold, cloudy and a rain most every night. Rather cold weather for crops but good for grass, which is looking fine.

Mrs. Franc Decker and two children, Marguerite and Helen, of Lewiston, also Jennie Philbrook and son, Wendell, of Greene were in town the past week to attend the funeral of their mother, Mary T. Otis.

Your correspondent wishes to correct an error made by the printer in last week's issue, that the load which F. W. Tyler hauled from Bethel to Lakeside in a day was not birch, as stated, but birch to be used on a building being built at the foot of the lake. We have plenty of birch up in this country but birch is scarce and has to be hauled from a distance.

Trial 2.18. Sired By Direct Hal, 2.04 1-4

Dam, Countess, by Mambrino King, black stallion, 15.2 1-2 hands, 1025 lbs. Count Direct, a son of Direct Hal 2.04 1/4 and The Countess, by Mambrino King attracted the attention of our thoughtful breeders to him as a sire, through the performance of the three year old filly, Countess Chimes last season. She was the first of his get to be trained. She showed quarters in 33 seconds. There were days last fall when she could have shown a full mile in 2:20 or better. That she impressed others as being a fast trotting filly, will add that Walter Cox of Dover, N. H. bought her of Geo. Bonnalie last fall. That fact alone is no small compliment to Count Direct.

Will stand at the stable of W. J. WHEELER at $25.00 to warrant. Send for full pedigree.

FRYBURG.

Katherine Putnam Osgood. Katherine Putnam Osgood died at her home, 54 Worcester street, Boston, at 8 o'clock a. m., Friday, May 27th. The cause of her death was valvular disease of the heart.

Miss Osgood was a native of this town, and was born on May 25, 1842, being the daughter of the late Edward Louis and Abigail Ripley (Dana) Osgood.

She was a woman of refinement, culture and literary attainments, and was a frequent contributor of both prose and poetry to the periodical press. She wrote a number of poems which are worthy of being published in a collective edition. Her poem entitled "Driving Home the Cows," which was originally published in Harper's Magazine for March, 1885, has enjoyed a great popularity and has been extensively reproduced in poetic anthologies and other similar collections of poetic gems.

The only relative of close kinship by whom she is survived is Hon. Edward Louis Osgood of Hopedale, Mass., and 221 Beacon street, Boston, Mass. The funeral was held on Friday, May 28th at 10 o'clock in the morning at the Forest Hills cemetery beside the remains of Miss Osgood's sister, Frances Caroline Osgood, who died on June 20, 1903, and whose remains, at first buried in this town, were removed to the Forest Hills cemetery in the Forest Hills cemetery.

Gordon Weston is home from U. of M. for the summer vacation.

Harry Eitch spent the week-end with J. W. Eastman and family at camp. New York and returned from the New York and opened her house on Elm street.

Edna Eastman returned Tuesday evening from a few days' visit in Portland and Thomaston.

Jessie Walker attended Iva Day exercises at Bowdoin, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hastings.

George O. Warren went to Orono, Wednesday, to attend exercises of Junior week at the U. of M. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clay of Portland, who have been entertained a few days at Mr. Hastings', have returned home.

Marie Perkins, boarding with her mother at Mrs. Buzzell's, was given a birthday surprise party on the occasion of her having entered her teens.

At the annual meeting of the trustees of Fryburg Academy, the same officers were re-elected. The resignation of Hon. J. E. Morrill, which was not accepted last year, was again sent in and reluctantly accepted. Hon. A. C. Kenney of Conway was elected to fill the vacancy.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Library Club was held at the library. Mrs. Ann Shirley was chosen trustee. The officers of the past year were re-elected as follows:—President, Mrs. Walter Mansfield; vice president, Mrs. B. T. Newman; secretary, Mary Warren; treasurer, Mrs. T. W. Charles; auditor, Miss H. C. Osgood; librarian, Mrs. J. W. Towle; committee in charge of grounds, Mrs. W. B. Post. The usual standing committees were chosen; in addition to these, at the suggestion of Mrs. Lougee, a committee of six ladies was chosen to act as hostesses, one at each meeting, thus relieving the program committee of all care of decoration and serving refreshments. A committee on music was also chosen to arrange music for the regular meetings. The meetings are adjourned until October.

NEWRY.

Daniel Enman underwent an operation for appendicitis.

A. D. Tuell of West Paris spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. A. B. Frost. Mr. and Mrs. Irving Stearns of Portland have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Thurston.

W. M. Leighton and Harry Maxim of Portland have been in Newry fishing. Mr. Leighton caught a trout from Bear river weighing 1 1/2 pounds.

Maine Sportsmen's Annual Outing.

Members of the Maine Sportsmen's Fish and Game Association will be interested to know that the annual outing of the association will be held from June 15th to 18th, inclusive, at Mountain View, Rangeley Lakes. The big shooting contest that has been a most interesting feature of the outings for the past two years, will take place again this year and Major John J. Dooley of Portland, chief ordinance, will be in full charge of the shoot. Two teams composed of the best marksmen of the guides and wardens will be chosen and suitable prizes will be awarded the winners.

Besides the shooting contest the members of the associations will enjoy the fine fishing afforded in the lakes and other kinds of sports will be indulged in. It is expected that the attendance at this outing will far exceed any other ever held by the sportsmen.

Mrs. Thomas H. Brown.

Mrs. Juliette, widow of Thomas H. Brown, M. D., of Paris, died May 30th, at the age of 55, after a 5 months' illness. She was the daughter of the late Moses Hammond, one of the early residents of Paris. Mrs. Brown had been in failing health and was finally taken to an institution in Portland for treatment, where she died. The funeral was held on the arrival of her son, Col. E. T. Brown, on Friday. Her children, Col. E. T. Brown, Agnes Mary and Gertrude J. Brinkie, all survive her. Mrs. Brown was a cousin of George W. Hammond, who died at the hospital in Lewiston recently.

Teaching Children to Save.

In certain cities in Massachusetts the children are being taught the art of saving money. This is a new branch in the educational line of the school work and is being brought about through the bank officials, which is in a way a side issue to the regular school work.

The bank officials visited a certain school where the scholars who attended were in rather needy circumstances and asked the children if they wouldn't like to start a bank account. In explanation he told them to save the money which they would spend for candy and unnecessary things, and bring it to their teacher who would give them a card crediting them with the amount brought, and when they had saved $1.00 they would be given a bank book which would be kept for them by the principal during the school term, the money to be at their disposal if they wanted to draw it out, although not advisable unless very necessary. This scheme was sufficient to attract the scholars and in time others will probably take hold of the plan and pass it on.

It gives the child an insight into the workings of a bank, which otherwise they would not learn until they were older, and may even then would not be the owner of a bank account. It teaches the child to decide and plan for him or her self, whether he would rather have a certain article which was thoroughly useless in itself or whether he would rather save the sum total of his account. In another view he sees his other schoolmates increasing their account each week and he naturally wishes to keep abreast with them and in this way they are taught to save the cents they have for candy, and doing errands, etc.

When the case of Principal Callahan of the Pottsville grammar school of Rumford, charged with assault upon a young woman pupil, came up in municipal court Saturday morning, Mr. Callahan waived examination and was adjudged guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs. He is released and furnished bail in the sum of $500 for his appearance at the October term of the Supreme court for Oxford County. John E. Stephens and G. H. Cobb became sureties. The prosecution had in attendance 15 witnesses but no evidence was taken.

Catarrh Will Go.

Relief Comes in Two Minutes, Complete Cure in Few Weeks. Don't go on hawking yourself sick every morning; it's cruel, it's harmful and it's unnecessary. If after breathing Hyomei, the wonder-worker, you are not rid of vile catarrh, you can have your money back. No stomach dosing—just take the little hard rubber "pocket inhaler" that comes with each outfit, and pour into it a few drops of Hyomei. Breathe it according to directions. In two minutes will relieve you of that stuffy, sore feeling. Use it a few minutes every day, and in a few weeks you will be entirely free from catarrh. Breathing Hyomei is a very pleasant and certain way to kill catarrh. Get an outfit today; it only costs $1.00. It's worth $1.00 to any catarrh sufferer. For sale by druggists everywhere and by Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, who guarantees it to cure throat, croup, coughs, colds, sore throat and bronchitis. An extra bottle of Hyomei Liquid if needed costs but 50c as the little hard rubber inhaler you get with outfit will last a lifetime. 21c23

Reading Aloud.

It takes a person of some poise and humility of mind to read aloud and not irretrievably antagonize the people one is favoring. It seems a simple thing reading aloud, not at all a dangerous way in which to pass an evening. Just enunciate with a decent clearness and nothing more, but there are, strangely enough, pitfalls into which the best of us have fallen. One may begin humbly enough, but after a while it catches your attention that that rich voice which rolls on so uninterruptedly is yours. Really a very fine organ. Everyone else listening, too; well, well! It is hard to find where such a thing has happened before. There—seems no reason why the most should not be made of such an opportunity, and though you may have been barely conscious of the trend of your thoughts here, you take the bit between your teeth and become objectionable for the rest of the reading.

Fishing Tackle!

Would you go to a hardware store to buy a suit of clothes? Certainly not! Then why not use the same judgement when buying Fishing Tackle and go where they sell Sporting Goods, That's Waite's. He has the best and most complete line of Fishing Tackle in Oxford County and it is selling too. We are right in the way. "You don't have to walk."

GREENWOOD.

Kittens Seeking Knowledge.

F. J. Cole has two kittens that are adventurous and met with a mishap a few days since that resulted in the death of one and a narrow escape for the other.

They found a small opening between the boards and rocks of a covered well and crawled in, both of them in trying to turn and get out fell into the well. They were missed but not until twenty-four hours had gone by were they found.

One had died but the other had taken refuge on a projecting stone and it was his cries that finally attracted attention. The question of how to rescue the little fellow seemed to present difficulties but finally a basket was tied to the end of a rope and lowered to his resting place. Pussy crawled in and was safely hoisted to the surface none the worse for his adventure.

Open time on Oversey pond June 1st. The early arrivals on that date had fine success and several beauties were captured. Since the first day of fishing the trout either are more wary or less hungry so that very few have been caught.

A box supper and dance was held in the new hall, Wednesday evening, the proceeds of which are to go toward the purchase of a chandelier for the church. A fairly good crowd attended, something over two dollars being cleared above expenses.

Some imbecile or other, presumably a spring poet, has written "What is more perfect than a day in June?" Unless he intended a little sarcasm, which is not likely, it would be his opinion that he never spent many of his June days in Maine. Seriously it does seem as though we are entitled to some good weather at this season and a lot of it but so far it has been the worst season on record.

Our personal recollection of this month for five years past has been distinctly unfavorable with a killing frost every year from the tenth to twenty-fifth of the month. On the whole it would be our judgment that there are a lot of things more perfect than a day in June.

LOCKE'S MILLS.

Sunday, May 29th, was observed at Locke's Mills in the following manner: A very interesting sermon was preached by Rev. C. L. Banghart of Bethel. We were glad to see so many friends from Brown Post of Bethel. The singing was especially good, and was enjoyed by all.

The church was very prettily decorated with flags, streamers of red, white and blue, wreaths of cedar, and potted plants.

Decorations day is always a day the people of Locke's Mills observe. Monday was not as pleasant a day as we would have wished, but the few remaining members of Whitman Post of Bryant's Pond came to Locke's Mills to pay their tribute to comrades who had answered to the last roll call. Under the escort of the Uniformed Rank of P. led by Mackinonquod band, followed by the Sons of Veterans and 60 school children they marched to the cemetery, where, owing to the rain, the services were short. They then marched into the church by the stirring old tune, "Marching Thro' Georgia," and listened to the following program:

Recitation..... Carlton Lapham
Song, Old Glory and the Stars..... School
Flag Drill..... 12 Children
Recitation..... Willie Corum
The Flag..... Robert Farnham
Recitation..... Robert Farnham

We then listened to a brief address by Rev. Clifford Sogarden of Portland. The line was then formed and all marched to the residence of Comrade Dana B. Grant, where about 100 partook of a nice lunch of coffee, doughnuts and cheese. The children were under perfect control, and much credit is due Eva Andrews, who drilled them in such an acceptable manner.
